SENATE REJECTS BONUS PAYMENT BILL

DEMOCRATS IN CHICAGO PLAN FOR CONCLAVE

REPEAL SUBMISSION STAND IS LIKELY, SAYS SHOUSE

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—The vanguard of Democracy's hosts began trooping into Chicago today for their battle royal over organization and the presidential nomination and with one of its leaders confidently predicting adoption of a plank favoring submission of the question of prohibition repeal.

Moving into headquarters just vacated by the Republicans, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, immediately began arranging for his party's convention opening June 27, but he paused long enough to challenge the Republican prohibition plank as "impossible of interpretation" and to predict a more "specific" Democratic declaration on this subject.

Establish Headquarters

Other Democratic leaders are expected here over the week-end, including James A. Farley, campaign manager for Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is far out in front of a field of eight other candidates for the presidential nomination who have delegates pledged to their cause.

Headquarters for Speaker Garner have been established for some time in the Sherman hotel and a suite of rooms in the Congress are understood to have been reserved for Governor Roosevelt in event he decides to come to Chicago before the convention is over.

Alfred E. Smith, 1928 standard bearer and candidate for the nomination this year, is expected by the middle of next week as is Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, another candidate.

Receiving newspapermen at his headquarters, Shouse said his name would go before the convention for permanent chairman. The Roosevelt people have advanced Senator Walsh of Montana as their candidate for this post and since Shouse has been regarded as aligned with the Roosevelt opposition the first test of the New Yorker's convention strength will come on this issue.

Shouse declined to predict what the outcome might be. Farley, here last week, expressed confidence Walsh would win and added the Roosevelt forces would not have proposed his name had they felt the required majority vote to put him over was lacking.

The Democrats will hold an informal meeting next Thursday of members designated so far by state delegations on the convention resolutions committee. The purpose will be to draw up as far as possible a tentative platform so as to save valuable time, but its actions necessarily will be unofficial since the convention itself must set up the resolutions committee.

Prohibition Trend "Wet"

He added the national committee would meet next Friday afternoon to hear contests. Minnesota

Welsh Will Run for Governorship

'Red' Barker, Gangster Who Wanted Capone's Crown, Shot to Death

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—George "Red" Barker, hard fisted labor racketeer, who hoped to succeed to the throne of "Scarface Al" Capone as ruler of Chicago's vice, gambling and liquor world, was slain early today from a second-story ambush.

His ambition was interrupted by a stream of bullets from enemies hidden in a machine gun nest on the north west side. The body was the third of the city's "public enemies" to lie in the county morgue.

Thus ended the first ballot taken by gang guns in their traditional battle ground on the question of Capone's successor as dispenser of patronage and enforcer of boundary lines for his far flung syndicate. Since the scar faced one went to the Atlanta penitentiary his former lieutenants have failed to maintain the old territorial rights in the sale of liquor and beer.

Convicted in Michigan

Police said Barker's passing heralded a third era of the city's gang wars. Capone ended the first period of disorganized free lancing by amalgamating the rival groups, drawing boundary lines and generally forcing respect for them. His incarceration in Atlanta put an end to that system, they said.

Barker's criminal record extended back to 1916 but he never was convicted for anything worse than assault to rob. Michigan courts locked him up for eight years on that charge with a six day intermission when he escaped. He was reported to have slain two men here in gaining control of more than a score of labor unions as "business agent," exacting tribute from the working men in exchange for a fancied "protection" or for coercing contractors and other employes into raising wages or using only union men.

He was one of the original "public enemies" listed by the Chicago crime commission in 1928.

Barker's death was greeted by the Better Business Bureau with a statement that the holds of racketeers on Chicago business probably would relax from internal dissension and because employers would gain courage in opposing their demands. Barker was reported to control the Teamsters' Union and the linen supply business. He was on his

HAD VISITED HERE

"Red" Barker has made numerous visits in the upper peninsula, stopping at Escanaba on several occasions. He frequently visited Marquette where he was imprisoned for eight years. Barker was once suspected of intending to engineer a plot to bring about the escape of Fred "Killer" Burke at the Marquette prison. His latest visit to the upper peninsula was two months ago.

INNOCENT BOY JAILED, FREED

Youth Had Served Prison Time for Murder He Never Committed

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—Gerald Growden, 20, who has been in Michigan state prison at Jackson since last October for a murder which he did not commit, was again free tonight.

His liberty came after a dramatic moment in the trial of four men now accused of murdering James B. Smith, a candy and tobacco salesman, in Romulus, Mich., in 1929.

While the jury was receiving evidence, two of the quartet, Lawrence Hein and Harry Lancaster, suddenly declared that they wanted to plead guilty to the slaying. The jury was dismissed.

They described the shooting in detail. They said they were drunk and wanted to hold up someone; they stopped their car in Romulus and Lancaster and Peter Simon, another defendant, walked toward Smith's truck.

Smith made a motion toward his hip and Lancaster fired. He insisted that Growden had no part in the crime and was not even with them.

Assistant Prosecutor William C. Buckinham moved that Growden, who had been returned here from Jackson prison for trial of the four, be granted a new trial, then recommended that the information against him be quashed. The court agreed and told Growden the law was making what amends it could by freeing him.

Fidgeting in the new brown suit that had been given him when he left Jackson prison Thursday Growden also heard the judge admonish him to behave if more punishment was not to be his, as his previous sentences for petty offences had played an important part in his conviction.

Blurting out that he wanted to "thank everybody who had anything to do with getting me out," and that "I'm not going to get into any more trouble," the youth fled the court into the fresh air and sunshine.

Growden was convicted last October 21, principally on the testimony of Donald Shick and Paul Keehl, fellow inmates at Ionia, Mich., reformatory, who said that Growden had boasted of knowing who shot Smith, and that he himself had been "in on the job."

Then, too, Derwood and Willard Bower of Romulus, who had witnessed the shooting, identified Growden as having fired the fatal shot, and the jury, despite Growden's protestations of innocence, sent him to prison.

TWO PLOTTERS ARE EXECUTED

Terrorists Who Planned To Kill Il Duce Shot to Death

Rome, June 17 (AP)—Five hundred Fascist militiamen today witnessed the death of two terrorists, one of whom had confessed a plot against the life of Premier Benito Mussolini.

The condemned men were Domenico Bovone, accused leader of a gang of bombers, and a henchman, Angelo Sbardellotto. They were convicted in brief special trials this week.

The scene of the executions was grim and impressive. The five hundred blackshirts were drawn up in a hollow square in the courtyard under the walls of Fort Bravetta on the outskirts of Rome.

"For Mussolini"

At the open end of the square was placed a chair. Bovone was seated and tied with his back to the firing squad. Twenty-four of the militiamen were lined up and fired at a given signal.

As the body sagged, almost instantly lifeless, the militiamen raised their daggers and gave the Fascist war cry, "A noi!" (to us). This was at 5:16 a. m.

At 5.45 a. m. Sbardellotto was led to the same chair and the performance was repeated, save at the end of the volley that sent him to death, the platoon commander shouted, "For Benito Mussolini!" Then the squad and 500 militiamen gave the Fascist cheer, "Eia, eia, eia, alala!"

Bovone was the reputed leader of a gang of bombers hired by anti-Fascists in Paris to spread terror in Italy. Sbardellotto allegedly had been designed to kill the premier, for he was captured near Mussolini's office on June 6 with bombs in his possession. He confessed.

According to the statements made by the members of the party who were in the car, Farrell with William M. There had been others in the party but they had gone home when the accident happened.

GRAND RAPIDS CITY MANAGER IS CANDIDATE

WILL HAVE SUPPORT OF GROESBECK IN CAMPAIGN

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 17 (AP)—Governor Wilber M. Brucker today faced definite opposition for renomination when George W. Welsh, city manager of Grand Rapids and former lieutenant-governor, shied his hat into the ring for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Welsh's action was as much of a surprise to his supporters as to the governor, as previously he had given no indication of such an announcement.

Standing on the city hall steps he told a crowd of some 200 to 300 persons who had paraded through the streets carrying placards reading "We want Welsh," that:

"If the people of Michigan want me, I certainly shall give them the opportunity to engage my services as governor."

Backed By Groesbeck

Welsh, who was defeated by former Gov. Fred W. Green in the gubernatorial primary of 1928, said he expects the support of former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck of Detroit in his candidacy.

"I have had the promise of Mr. Groesbeck only this week that should I run for the office of governor, I would have his active support," he said in an interview later.

He added that he plans no immediate resignation of his present office of city manager, which he has held for three years, but that he will resign when "my candidacy becomes formal."

Addressing his supporters, Welsh declared that the pressing need in state government now is a strong, active leadership. "The problem facing Michigan now cannot be solved by going hither and thither to every social gathering in the state," he said. "The time has come to get to work."

He pleaded for state aid to relieve unemployment, coupling this plea with an attack on the recent special session of the legislature.

"We had wanted a special session of the legislature called some time ago for this very relief purpose," Welsh said. "Twenty million dollars were set aside for road purposes in the counties. The cities went crying for bread for empty stomachs, and they offered us more cement for our roads."

Leadership Needed

Welsh warned that "unless strong measures are taken by those in power, I think every structure of the government is in danger. We have got to take the cloaks of authority in high public places and strip them of tinsel and adornments.

"We have got to have leadership with rolled up sleeves. We can't go on handing out offices of high responsibility as mere empty honors on platters. We have got

Billy Still A Goat

Black Magic of Psychics, in Attempt to Transform Animal Into Young Man, Proves Failure

BY W. E. BROCKMAN
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Wernigerode, Saxony, Germany, June 17 (AP)—A group of eminent German and British investigators into psychic phenomena ascended tonight to the top of "The Brocken," Germany's magic mountain, and, in accordance with ancient rite, attempted to change a billygoat into a young man. Somehow or other it didn't come off.

The failure of the experiment can not be laid to any error in method, for the investigators observed every requirements set forth in the "high German black book," in which are listed the processes by which the very best medieval witches accomplished whatever they happened to be up to win in the same mountain.

As demanded by the formula, the experimenters had the assistance of Miss Gloria Gordon of England, "a maiden pure of heart." They anointed the billygoat with blood and honey and the scrapings of church bells, they used the proper pine fire, they described a circle of the prescribed size, and they uttered every one of the Latin incantations stipulated for such goings-on.

Goat Remains Goat

As prescribed by the old rite, the goat was led into the magic circle by a silver cord. After he had been anointed a white sheet was thrown over him. All the proper abracadabra was intoned. Then, in a weird monotone, Harry Price, director of the National Laboratory of Psychical Research, London, boomed "one."

With just the proper pauses he counted ten.

A hundred or so spectators, huddled in overcoats to protect them from the swirling mists, looked on in breathless silence.

The maiden pure in heart whisked away the sheet.

And there stood a billygoat, somewhat the worse for blood and honey and the scraping of church bells, shivering in the cold.

The spectators applauded heartily and the investigators said they were satisfied. They hadn't expected the hocus-pocus to work anyway. It was all a matter of proving, by painstaking experiment, that there wasn't anything in all this withcraft business.

27 Killed, 63 Hurt As Blasts Wreck Boat and Drydock

Montreal, June 17 (AP)—Ten men were killed today and seventeen others are believed to have met a similar fate in a series of explosions and raging fire that wrecked the great Vickers drydock and the interior of the oil-tanker Cymbeline, on which a hundred men were working.

At least 63 others were injured, and property damage was estimated at several million dollars. The blasts, following each other with death-dealing suddenness for an hour, sent blazing oil 100 feet into the air, threw men's bodies into the harbor and sent many, their faces torn and bleeding, staggering for safety.

Many with broken arms and others with broken legs dragged themselves from the danger zone as firemen, their chief among the fallen, ignored the ever-present danger of further explosions and poured tons of water into the vessel or tried frantically to rescue their injured companions and workmen.

Fire Chief Raoul Gauthier, former president of the Dominion Fire Chief's association and known far and wide for his courage in other disasters, died with three of his subordinates in the second and most terrific of the blasts. They were burned to death within sight of their comrades, helpless to fight their way through the raging flames to assist them.

The firemen killed were Paul Henrichon, J. Debrienne and J. Hamelin. The six workmen known to be dead were John Ewen, James Wilson, John Riddell, James Corbett, Donald Dunn and William Atherton.

The missing men are J. Riley, A. Tudor, R. Gagnon, A. Jones, W. Gillespie, J. Larimee, N. Snowden, J. Ford, R. Butt, T. Boone, J. Legge, W. Tardis, K. Rock, Jack Devlin, T. Hulhan, J. Briggs, and J. Cardiff.

The search for the bodies was hindered by the intense heat of the Cymbeline's plates, but officials believed the 17 bodies would

MARSHALL ON WAY TO PRISON

Pistol in His Cell Discovered; To Serve at Marquette

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 17 (AP)—His apparent plan to shoot his way to freedom thwarted by the discovery of a pistol in his cell, Henry Marshall, Detroit, tonight was enroute to Marquette branch prison to start serving a life term for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Charles Knapp.

Manacled hand and foot, Marshall departed from Grand Rapids at 3:45 p. m. today in a motor car under custody of three sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Fred Kelley and Prosecutor Bartel J. Johnkman began an investigation to determine the source of a .25 calibre loaded pistol found at noon today in the pocket of Marshall's coat hanging in his cell at the Kent county jail.

Officials said that Marshall's wife and child were the last persons to visit him Thursday, and that they were under such surveillance that they could not have passed weapons to him. He had no visitors today.

The car in which the prison-bound party left the jail with the prisoner was changed later before they left the city, as officers feared that a possible delivery might be attempted. The pistol was taken to Lansing to check fingerprints and attempt to trace its ownership through the numbers.

FIRE ACTIVE IN STATE FOREST

Four Sections of Lake Superior Tract Burning

Newberry, June 17 (Special)—Fire believed incendiary was sweeping through four sections of the Lake Superior State Forest, 35 miles north east of Newberry tonight. At midnight the blaze could be seen at Newberry, setting a red glow in the skies.

Three fires broke out in the state forest this afternoon, one at 1:30, another at three o'clock and the third at 4:30 o'clock. The fires are the first in the state forest since 1921 and Bernard McTiver, forester in charge, reports that the blazes were apparently set.

A truckload of 33 men from Newberry and coast guards and volunteer workers were fighting to check the flames but it is not believed that the fire will be brought under control this evening.

Leo Marlett, conservation officer, lost an automobile in the fire at the forest tonight. Marlett parked the car ear a fire line to aid in the battle against the flames. The flames enveloped the machine before it could be saved.

PATMAN PLAN TURNED DOWN BY 62-18 VOTE

SOLONS THEN TABLE MOTION TO RECONSIDER

Washington, June 17 (AP)—An avalanche of senate votes tonight buried all hopes of several thousand war veterans massed at the Capitol for immediate payment of $2,400,000,000 on their bonus certificates.

By a 62 to 18 vote the senate rejected the Patman bill which had swept through the house on the wave of a 211 to 176 majority. Only 10 Democrats, seven Republicans and one Farmer-Labor senator voted for the legislation which had brought 20,000 former service men to Washington.

As the result was announced outside, boos from the vast throng of veterans mingled with cheers at a statement from one of their leaders that "we will stay here until the bonus is paid."

Block Reconsideration

A few minutes after rejecting the measure, the senate administered the final death blow by tabling a motion to reconsider its action. Under the rules, only one such motion can be made.

This move was engineered by two administration stalwarts, Reed (R. Pa.), and Moses (R., N. H.), the former moved reconsideration and the latter that the motion be tabled. By a 44 to 26 vote the senate definitely determined President Hoover would have no opportunity of exercising the veto he had promised the legislation if it reached him.

Notice that the fight would be continued had been given earlier by Senators Bankhead (D. Ala.), and Thomas (D. Okla.) but the parliamentary maneuver thwarted their plans. They had changed their vote from "aye" to "no" so they could move reconsideration at a later date.

A half hour or so after the senate action there were only a few scattered veterans remaining at the Capitol. They had marched away by the hundreds without creating any disturbance.

Hundreds of veterans—clad either in overalls or ragged clothing—sat in the senate galleries watching tensely every move as the debate dragged through the day and into the night. When the result was announced they remained quiet and began to leave quietly.

Shortly before the rollcall, the thousands of bedraggled former service men at the Capitol were reinforced by other thousands from the main concentration encampment at Anacostia. They confined their activities, however, to singing war songs and occasionally breaking out with shouts of "we want the bonus."

Reports were received that other thousands planned to march on the Capitol and police raised a draw bridge over the Anacostia river to prevent the egress from the nearby encampment. Later, it was lowered when the veterans promised to maintain order.

Other approaches to the city from the camp also were guarded by police, who refused to permit the veterans to go toward the city.

A large group of police filtered through the ranks of the veterans at the Capitol to maintain order but they had no serious difficulty. Leaders of the veterans made impromptu speeches throughout the day advising against any disorder.

DAVILA REGAINS GOV'T IN CHILE

Socialist Government Is Planned; Will Write New Constitution

Santiago, Chile, June 17 (AP)—A military coup today again put Carlos Davila at the head of a Socialist junta "devoid of extremists."

This was the latest of kaleidoscopic changes which have occurred since President Juan Esteban Montero was overthrown by Davila and Colonel Marmaduke Grove, head of the Chilean air service, exactly two weeks ago.

Colonel Grove in turn ousted Davila for his moderate Socialist powers, but last night before he got a chance to divert the government into his own channels he was captured in a bloodless coup by army leaders supporting Davila.

Davila confirmed their stand a few hours after they had overthrown the Grovistas and appeared to have the solid backing of the country's military forces.

In State of Siege

"This government will continue along the lines originally projected (two weeks ago) for the Socialist reupblic of Chile," he said. "Armed forces will support the fulfillment of our plans.

"A constitutional assembly will be called soon to write a constitution. Until then the government will confine its acts as nearly as possible within the present constitution."

The junta continued the state of siege under which the country has been functioning and guards were stationed at strategic points, although the city was quiet after last night's harmless gunfire and other excitement.

Colonel Grove and his principal aide, Eugenio Matte, were kept under strict guard in an unannounced spot, but it was understood they might be taken to Argentina aboard a military plane almost immediately.

Reports from various parts of the country showed the military forces were solidly behind the new Davila regime, and business circles generally appeared to be pleased with the change.

As the junta prepared to take over, 500 Communists were arrested and the streets were cleared. Troops were ringed about the presidential palace as the junta officials were sworn in at noon.

DeValera Envisions An Irish Republic

London, June 17. (AP)—The house of commons was told today that the ultimate aim of President De Valera is a united Irish republic recognizing the British crown 'in certain circumstances."

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, said the president of the Free State made this assertion to him in Dublin last week during negotiations to settle differences.

Mr. Thomas said De Valera envisioned an Irish republic including Ulster, which would be called, understood and accepted as a republic.

De Valera was pictured as recognizing circumstances in which the British commonwealth would act as a unit for external purposes. Then "His Majesty the king would recognized as the head" of the British commonwealth.

Mother and Brother of Cripple Who Was Starved to Death Held Insane, Not Responsible for Act

Baltimore, June 17, (AP)—The mother and brother of the 26 year old cripple, starved to death ten weeks ago "to drive out devils that possessed him" were found insane and not legally responsible for his death in a verdict given later today by a coroner. They were ordered held in a local hospital and will be committed to an institution later.

Mrs. Annie Aubel, 55, the mother and Paul Aubel, 30, the brother of the cripple, Grant Aubel, an arthritis victim, were examined today by two Baltimore alienists at the request of the authorities.

The body was found on a couch by police who entered the Aubel home yesterday under a ruse to find where he was. A diary, kept by Paul Aubel, said Grant had died April 4 and predicted his resurrection on June 24.

Repeating that "God knows all about this," both Mrs. Aubel and her son said they had not given him food since "March 20 because the Lord told us to starve him to drive out the devils."

Paul Aubel was arraigned today on a technical charge of disorderly conduct. He is a college graduate and has been working as a research engineer. A process for copper plating was patented in his name.

Charles Grant of Philadelphia, brother of Mrs. Aubel, sought to to have them committed to an asylum. He said Mrs. Aubel's husband died in 1929 in an asylum.

Eleven persons were summoned for a coroner's inquest.

Drys Disagree On Acceptability Of Prohibition Plank

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—A sharp disagreement among dry elements over the acceptability of the Republican prohibition plank came to the surface tonight with the statement of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement: "It is by no means a dry victory."

Alozno E. Wilson, executive director of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, earlier had branded the plank definitely a triumph for the dry and listed 14 points where the Republicans and his associates agreed.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, head of the Women's Law Enforcement group, denied tonight any intention to form a "women's prohibition party" but made it clear that if the Democratic candidates or platform fail to satisfy, "a further solution must be sought."

Start Search for Missing Explorer

London, June 17 (AP)—A British expedition will leave here tomorrow to back-track the seven-year-old trail of Col. H. P. Fawcett, explorer and mystic, into the inner jungles of Brazil's vast Matto Grosso.

The expedition was inspired in part by the tale of a Swiss trapper, Stephan Rattin, that he saw Fawcett alive and well last October between the Tapajos and Madeira rivers, and that the explorer is a captive of Indians.

Leaders of the enterprise will include Robert Churchward who explored the Araguaya river last year, and Captain John G. Holman, a native Brazilian hunter and engineer.

The search for Fawcett, who disappeared hunting for a Garden of Eden and lost civilization, will be intensified in territory somewhat west of the native village where Rattin said he saw Fawcett. Many authorities have explored the area and returned with the conviction Fawcett was dead, but others, including Churchward, believe him to be alive.

2,133 To Graduate At U. Of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 17, (AP)—The largest graduating class in the history of the University of Michigan will receive diplomas at the eighty-eighth annual commencement exercises Monday morning.

The board of regents voted diplomas to 2,133 students, including 26 nurses who have completed their theoretical work but not their training. The literary college leads all others with 824 graduates.

The total brought to 2,753 the number of diplomas voted by the regents during the fiscal year 1931-32, including groups which completed their work at the end of the summer term last year and at mid-year.

HOOVER PUSHES FURLOUGH PLAN

Federal Kidnaping Bill Sent to President By House

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Another demand for adoption of his furlough plan for cutting federal payroll costs was made today by President Hoover just as congressional conferees on contested economy bill broke up deadlocked on this issue.

"I am in hopes that the conferees and the congress will find it possible to accept the so-called furlough plan for dealing with federal employes," Mr. Hoover told newspapermen at his semi-weekly press conference.

"It is in reality the five day week applied to the government."

Only a few seconds later, conferees at the capitol on the economy program announced the failure of all efforts to reconcile the furlough plan in the senate bill with the straight cut of 11 per cent of salaries over $2,500 in the house bill.

Meanwhile, the senate debated the $2,400,000,000 soldiers' bonus bill and the house approved measures to make interstate kidnaping a federal offense and indorsing an international economic conference.

The kidnaping bill, which now goes to the president, provides imprisonment for the offense. An effort to impose the death penalty was defeated.

By a 235 to 24 vote it adopted and sent to President Hoover the Somers resolution for a world economic conference.

The resolution said:

"The house x x x does hereby approve and encourage the efforts which have been made to hold an international economic conference to be participated in by as many countries as may be willing to send representatives for the purpose of considering methods for the improvement of general economic and montetary conditions.

Representative McFadden (R. Pa.) attempted unsuccessfully to block approval, saying it would lead to cancellation of war debts.

Bids Are Opened For Dredging Job

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—Bids were opened by the United States engineers office today for a dredging job of 1,376,400 cubic yards in Little Falls channel of St. Mary's river. Raymond T. Emmick of Mt. Clemens was low with a tender of $137,227.08. The bids were sent to Washington where the award will be made.

HIT AND RUN DRIVER HELD FOR HOMICIDE

Rupert also told him the car had struck something but Farrell told them to "forget it." At the Coates home the members of the party examined the car and found a bent fender and blood. Farrell told them, according to the statements, that they were all to say that they had struck a calf.

Word of the accident was telephoned officials by Bert Hoyt and Lieut. Fred Keane, Sheriff John J. Turnbull and Doctor George Swanson went out. There was little that could be done for the injured woman. Farrell and the three young people were brought to Newberry and statements taken from all but Farrell who still appears in a dazed condition. He was locked up and Rupert is being held as a material witness. The girls were allowed to return to their home. A coroner's inquest will be held and Farrell will then be arraigned.

Deny That Kaiser Wants To End Exile

Berlin, June 17 (AP)—A report that former Kaiser Wilhelm wants to return to Germany from exile was printed today by the society news weekly, Kleines Journal, but immediately denied in responsible quarters.

The paper said the kaiser wants to come back next autumn for the wedding of Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden and Princess Sibylle of Saxecoburg - Gotha. Thereafter the former monarch was reported wishing to take up residence at Coburg.

Hohenzollern agents reiterated that Wilhelm never wants to come back until Germany calls him, and a government spokesman professed ignorance of the kaiser's intentions, declaring it would be up to Holland to say the first word.

Marine Given Award For Act Of Bravery

San Diego, Calif., June 17. (AP)—Sergt. Hilmer N. Torner, non-flying marine corps clerk, was presented the navy's distinguished flying cross today for landing a plane in which he was a passenger after the pilot fainted at the controls.

Staff Sergeant Orlo S. Hoffer, the pilot, fainted while circling Camp Kearney at 2,000 feet on a test flight and fell forward on the controls.

Torner made ready to jump, but saw that to do so would surely mean the death of the pilot. Hence he pulled Hoffer off the controls, drew the plane out of a spin and settled back to learn to fly. He made a safe landing.

ANTON SCHILS PLACE RAIDED

Federal Agents Get Liquor in Early Morning Foray

Federal prohibition officers early this morning raided the soft drink parlor operated by Anton W. (Tony) Schils, 1518 Sheridan Road, confiscated a case of beer and a quantity of moonshine whiskey, and placed Schils, the proprietor, under arrest for violation of the federal prohibition law.

The raid was made about 2 o'clock this morning with three Marquette officers, Albert Ramsdell, P. Wilson and J. F. Moore, participating. They are the same men who were threatened with mob violence earlier this week following a raid on the Duby Hotel in Menominee.

Samples of the liquor found in the place were taken by the officers. Schils was placed in the county jail and will be taken today to Marquette to be arraigned in federal court.

Arrest Couple for Money Order Frauds

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—Police revealed tonight that fugitive warrants had been issued for Leonard Hagey, Detroit, arrested in St. Louis, and Florence Hadley, 30, held in Columbus, charging them with complicity in money order frauds which have cost the Western Union Telegraph company $6,494.17 in Michigan.

Officers said they were informed the prisoners had agreed to waive extradition and that they would be returned to Detroit tomorrow or Sunday.

St. Louis police said they found a set of linesman's tools in Hagey's effects. The frauds were carried out by a person or persons who tapped telegraph wires between Eaton Rapids, Mich., and Grand Rapids, and between Howell, Mich., and Detroit, to send money orders, intercept message and send confirmations. The orders were cashed by a woman.

Hagey, police said, formerly was a Western Union employe. The frauds have been under investigation for several weeks.

GRAND RAPIDS CITY MANAGER IS CANDIDATE

to demand service, and cast aside all notion of honors.

"I happen to know that no matter how well we may have done here or how well other cities of the state have done, that unless the state of Michigan itself enters into this fight there is nothin sight but suffering for many next winter. The relief of unemployment is the problem of our state government.

"And I don't imagine that the American individual is one who will suffer in silence if he thinks that lack of intelligent effort in the part of those in authority is the cause of that suffering.

Welsh and former Governor Roosevelt long have been political allies and close friends. In 1930 Welsh actively campaigned for Groesbeck against Governor Brucker, and Welsh's statement of their renewed alliance was accepted in some quarter as an indication that Groesbeck would not enter the gubernatorial field in the fall although many names have been reported on petitions for him.

GREEN SURPRISED

Ionia, Mich., June 17, (AP)—Former Governor Fred W. Green, just returned from attending the Republican convention at Chicago as a member of Michigan's delegation, expressed surprise tonight when informed of the entrance of City Manager George W. Welsh, Grand Rapids, into the gubernatorial race.

"It's news to me that Mr. Welsh had any intention of running," the former governor said at his home here.

Asked whether he would lend any support to Welsh, Green replied, "I prefer to remain neutral (between Welsh and Gov. Brucker), at least until I get some background.

"Right now I'm just another furniture man," he said.

The former governor said that there never was any animosity between himself and Welsh as a result of his victory over Welsh in the 1928 primary, or because of the fact that he supported Gov. Brucker in 1930 while Welsn threw his weight to Groesbeck.

May Revoke Permits Of 2 State Dentists

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 17, (AP)—Decision of the Michigan State Board of Dentistry on whether to revoke licenses of Dr. C. M. McAurther, Detroit dentist, and Dr. W. T. Cramer, Grand Rapids dentist, will be made known in two weeks, board members said tonight.

The announcement followed separate trials of the two today on charges of unprofessional conduct. Each took the witness stand in his own defense, denied any intent to violate the law but admitted certain alegations, and offered to conduct future practice in accord with the desires of the board.

HERMAN KUNERT MAKES REPORT

Findings of Poor Relief Study Given to Luce Supervisors

Newberry, Mich., June 16 (Special) Herman Kunert, who has been making a special investigation of poor relief conditions in Luce county, submitted the report of his findings and offered his recommendations to the board of supervisors at the meeting held today.

His recommendations were as follows:

That something be done to lessen the fire danger at the isolation hospital; a cheap porch built on the north side, one or more stationary ladders fastened on the porch. Another ladder placed on the south side of the building so that the men can get out onto the present roof and from there to the ground. This can be done by the inmates. There is not a single fire extinguisher in this building.

That a more complete report be made each month; figures given by the keeper of the infirmary and the secretary of the board represent only about 50% of the total cost.

If possible, wood stumpage should be secured at different places for stove wood only. This can be made at least self-supporting and every able bodied man asking or receiving help should cut wood or furnish some labor for amount received. Every taxpayer in need of stove wood should secure their supply from this source.

That the poor commission keep in close touch with employers of labor.

In the past our county, township, village and local industries as well as all who have employed labor, perhaps through no fault of their own, have not helped as much as they could have in giving labor to the ones the county has to support. At the present time with all the industries shut down this burden falls on the state and county highway departments. If there is any objections by the county and state highway departments in taking on such labor it must be straightened out at once. In this connection I wish to pay a compliment to Mr. C. S. Sleeper for helping out as he has since everyone has been cut off the poor list. This shows what can be done and a better system should be adopted. At present Lakefield township has asked for and received more labor than other townships.

I believe that everyone should be given an equal chance, that the laboring man be given a chance to make good. Past mistakes and reputations should be forgotten and all given an opportunity to start in new.

That a fair day's work be given in exchange for help; that no temporary or permanent relief be given to a man who does not use it to the best interest of his family and the community.

That no bills of any kind for goods, work or services be paid unless authorized by the proper ones in charge of such expenditures.

DEATH CLAIMS NAP BOUDREAU

Prominent Garden Citizen Dies; Funeral On Monday

Garden, (Special)—Napoleon Boudreau, Sr., died at his home in Garden at 1:15 Friday morning after an illness of 18 months. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. Burial will be at the Catholic cemetery on Monday, June 20 at 9 a. m., Rev. V. C. Savageau officiating.

Mr. Boudreau was born at Black Brook, New York, December 4, 1857. In 1883 he moved with his wife to Garden, where he has since been prominent in the business life of the community. For many years he was affiliated with the Knights of the Maccabees, and has served several terms on the Garden Township Board of Education.

The immediate survivors are Mrs. Roy Weaver of New York, who will arrive in town Saturday; Mrs. Walter Stellwagen of Garden, and Napoleon Boudreau, Jr., of Garden.

Bugs Moran is returning to Chicago, a news dispatch says. Both Republicans and Democrats deny that he is a delegate.

THEATRES

The double feature program will be shown at the Delft Theatre again today.

Silent halls and dim deserted rooms of an ancient hotel, which housed among its famous guests of yesterday President U. S. Grant, provides the settings for scenes of "Ghost Valley," the RKO-Pathe Western mystery-thriller now showing at the Delft Theatre with Tom Keene in the starring role.

Built in 1860, the hostelry, which stands in decaying, lonely splendor, was once the center of social life in the thriving California boom city, Hornitos. With the golden treasure from its mines long since exhausted, Hornitos is today one of the West's famous ghost towns.

A simple, honest, straightforward story of family life and the problems of the younger generation is told in "New Morals for Old," which opened last night at the Delft Theatre as a filmization of John Van Drutten's play, "After All," which enjoyed a successful run on Broadway last season.

Here is depicted the age-old struggle between parents and their children. A boy and girl resolve to lead their own lives, defying conventions and the wishes of their parents whom they consider to be old-fashioned. For the boy, who goes to Paris to study art, there are gay nights in the celebrated Latin quarter. For the girl, there is a clandestine romance and a run-away marriage. In the end it is shown that the younger generation always steers back to the course of sanity, even as their parents sowed their "wild oats" but turned out all right before them.

——EDITORIAL——

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

ONE of the most difficult jobs, requiring no end of patience, tact, sympathy but firmness, is held by those persons throughout the country, who have been assigned to provide relief to the unemployed and indigent of their communities.

Such a task has been assumed by Carl E. Anderson, poor commissioner, and L. A. Erickson, director of unemployment relief, for the city of Escanaba. It is humanly impossible to please everybody in this work; such has been the experience of those in charge everywhere.

At last Thursday's meeting of the Escanaba city council, it developed there is some dissatisfaction in the method of distributing the welfare department business among the stores of the city.

Several years ago, orders were given out specifying a certain amount of money with which the indigent person could buy what was needed. Abuses were discovered, however, in that some were buying candy, ice cream and other luxuries instead of substantial food. Then, the poor department changed its policy, issuing orders that specified what articles should be given by the merchant to the indigent, but the orders did not state where the goods should be purchased.

Some merchants complained they were not getting their share of the business, and recently the poor department began stipulating on the orders where the goods should be bought. An effort has been made to distribute the business to the various food stores. How such a policy can be carried out offers a big problem. There are about seventy grocery and butcher shops in the city, and if the poor department is to divide the purchases between them, there is going to be a lot of figuring to be done.

Then, too, it was brought out at the council meeting that some stores are charging more than others for their goods. It is to the interest of the majority of the taxpayers of the city that the poor department buy wherever it can get the most for the public's money. This principle alone should guide the poor department in the administration of its welfare fund.

The city has little opportunity in sight to "create" work to help the unemployed. But the unfortunates must be fed. In some other cities, commissaries have been established to provide the staple items of food. The plan has some merits and it has some defects, but it may be worth consideration.

A PARALLEL CASE FOR GERMANY

PROBABLY history never exactly repeats itself, but now and then it comes close enough to give nervous shudders.

Right now students of the European situation are asking themselves if Republican Germany is about to follow the course steered by Republican France in 1848. There are two or three little indications that it may; and, if it does, all a lover of peace can do is pray that history will repeat itself so far but no farther.

In 1848 France was a republic. Napoleon Bonaparte had been gone for more than three decades, and with him had gone—as Frenchmen saw it—all of the glory and prestige that France had had under the first empire.

So, in that year, the French elected as their president Prince Louis Napoleon, nephew of Bonaparte. The election came as a climax to a turbulent year of revolution—a year not greatly unlike that which Germany is living through now. And shortly after his election, Louis Napoleon changed France from a republic to an empire and had himself proclaimed emperor.

The emperor then led his nation into an erratic foreign policy that culminated in the Franco-Prussian war, in which France suffered a crushing defeat and almost declined to the position of a second-class power.

The parallel with modern Germany is inescapable.

Germany has lost her emperor, as France had lost her Napoleon. Hard times have followed his departure. The power and the glory that the nation knew under him have flitted over the glory that the nation knew under him have flitted over the horizon. A powerful clique of army officers and aristocratic landowners wants the monarchy restored, precisely as was the case in France in 1848.

Furthermore, it is constantly reported that the son of the ex-kaiser, the former Crown Prince William, will seek the presidency of Germany shortly, with Von Hindenburg resigning to make way for him. William does not deny it. It is an open secret that the Junkers want him to.

What would happen then? Restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy, a fight to regain the lost "place in the sun," a new war with France—the possibilities are ominous. We can only hope that in this instance history will not even come close to repeat itself.

VANISHING TRADESMEN

IN YEARS past, the young man was repeatedly advised by his elders to "learn a trade" so as to be assured of a steady, well-paying job the rest of his lifetime. But advent of new machinery, introduction of substitute products, and changing tastes and customs have made deep inroads on many of the well-established handicraft trades, causing unemployment and shifting of occupations even before the present period of business and industrial slump appeared.

The decline of the cigar-maker trade can be taken as an example of changing conditions. Especially is this noticeable in Escanaba for a score years ago, there were about seventy cigar-makers employed in about a dozen factories here, whereas only four of these tradesmen are now working.

Several different causes have contributed to the virtual extinction of the local cigar manufacturing industry. The first crimp in the business here was felt during the world war when the prices for tobacco went sky-high, and as the prices of cigars are stabilized to a large degree by custom it was impossible to make up for the increased cost of production by passing it on to the consumer. The large factories, however, which have machines capable of increasing output by ten times, were better able to adjust themselves to the changing conditions. Development of the cigar industry in Cuba, where cheap labor is employed, also has also aggravated the situation for the small American manufacturer of hand-made cigars.

Poetry, says a writer, is an overflow of powerful emotions. It's really a shame that more golfers don't try it.

"What does a man get for all the money he wastes on tobacco?" a reformer asks. A good bawling out if he drops ashes on the rug.

In Pineville, Ky., they ought to change that old sign reading Go Slow and See Our City, to Go Slow and See Our Jail.

BLOODY ITALIAN FRONT

On June 18, Austrian and Italian troops, the latter re-enforced by British battalions, engaged in a fierce battle on the Italian front.

It centered on the mountain sector and Montello district, and was caused by the concerted Austrian effort to better their positions on the Piave, especially west of San Dona.

Saint Andrea, which had changed hands ten times in various encounters, was torn to the ground by shells. The railroad running from that town toward Montebelluna was hidden under a litter of dead bodies for a length of several kilometers.

The haul of prisoners from Austrian ranks had reached more than 9000. Many of the prisoners had little packets of money coupons printed in Italian for spending in cities the Austro-Hungarian forces expected to capture.

CHAPTER XXI

DAN opened the door quietly and entered. He had been gone nearly an hour. "Hello," he said to Cherry.

The girl had turned at the sound of the key in the lock but now she did not glance up. She was sitting in the window seat, looking very small with her feet curled beneath her, her face white against the cloudy mass of dark hair. The night through the window behind her was dark, too. Cherry had been staring at that starless sky.

"Hello."

Phillips put down his hat and crossed the room. "I'm sorry," he began abruptly. "I didn't mean the things I said tonight. I—well, I want you to know I'm sorry about it."

"It's all right."

But it wasn't all right. Phillips could see that. The brown eyes raised to his showed how deeply Cherry had been hurt. There were no tears in those eyes now but the wisp of handkerchief she clutched was a damp and twisted ball.

Dan waited uncertannly. He wanted to say more, did not know how to begin.

"Can I—sit down here?"

She moved to make room for him and he dropped to the seat with a sigh.

"I've been walking," he told her.

"Walking? Where did you go?"

"Oh, I don't know. Down the street—I didn't notice. It's getting cold out."

Suddenly Cherry was concerned. "And you didn't have your topcoat! Oh, Dan, you shouldn't have done that . You've probably taken cold and now you'll be sick!"

"I don't think so."

"But you can't be sure. You should have a hot bath and—"

"There's nothing wrong with me, I tell you. I'll be all right."

There was silence again. This time Cherry broke it. She leaned nearer, touched Dan's hand with her own.

"I—didn't mean what I said, either," she told him. "I shouldn't have promised Dixie we'd come without asking you first and I didn't mean to complain. It was my fault."

HE stopped her. "No, it was mine. I lost my head and there was no excuse for it. I know you get tired of this life. Cooking and washing dishes and working all day in this hole. It's my fault that you have to do it because I don't make enough to hire a maid. That's why you have all this drudgery. You shouldn't have married me, Cherry! It was a mistake! I'll never be able to give you the things you should have—servants and money and pretty clothes. I'm just a bum police reporter and that's all I'll ever be. I'm—oh, what's the use? What's the use?"

Dan's hands opened wide in a gesture of disgust.

"But, Dan—" her arms stole about his shoulder. "You mustn't talk that way! You mustn't because it isn't true! You're not a bum reporter and I won't have you saying you are. What do I care for servants and clothes and a lot of money? Those things don't make people happy. I found that out! And I don't mind about the housework, either. Of course I know I'm not much good at it yet but if you can stand it I guess I can."

Dan shook his head. "You've been a sport about it all," he told her, "but that doesn't change things."

"I don't want them changed."

He looked at her. "Do you really mean that?" Dan asked slowly. "Do you?"

"You know that I do."

"You mean that if you knew it was going to be such hard work with bills piling up and never any good times—do you mean you'd want to marry me if it was to do over again?"

"Yes, Dan."

He scarcely heard her. It was the answer in Cherry's star-bright eyes that made him catch her close. He held her in both arms pressed tightly to his heart. His lips, eager and demanding, found the girl's.

"You darling!" he whispered huskily. "Oh, you darling!"

LATER as Cherry, with her negligee pulled tight about her, was putting the empty milk bottles in the hall Dan called to her.

"Tell you what we'll do tomorrow, honey. We're going to step out!"

"But, Dan, we can't afford—"

"Oh, don't think I'm getting reckless. We'll see a movie—one I can get passes for."

"That will be fun," Cherry agreed. "I'll have dinner ready the minute you get here. And it won't be canned beans, either! Something difficult and complicated to prepare like—ham and eggs!"

They both laughed. "Don't know where you'd find anything better!" Dan insisted.

Peace and tranquility had been restored in the household. The threatening problem of financial insecurity had reared its ugly head and been put down—for the time.

Dan and Cherry did see a motion picture the next evening. They sat hand in hand in the semi-darkness while a lovely blond actress in the role of a princess lost her heart to an adventurous young American. They watched these two cleverly outwit the diplomats who tried to separate them. The young American was penniless but handsome and he was an audacious suitor. The blond princess sang wistful love songs.

When the organ soloist began a popular dance tune it semed to Cherry that the song was inspired, a masterpiece. The words flashed on the screen:

"Come let us stroll down lovers' lane
Once more to sing love's old refrain
For we must say, "Auf Wiedersehn—Auf Wiedersehn, my dear—"

A girl beside Cherry was singing in a high-pitched voice. Cherry did not sing but she was sure that she would never forget that song. It was beautiful though sad. She and Dan knew what it meant to stroll down lovers' lane but they would never, never part. They would never say "farewell" as the sweethearts in the song.

Cherry's hand, in Dan's, pressed closer. The song was concluded and a news reel flashed on the screen. Twenty minutes later the two left the theater and walked down Twelfth street.

They had gone less than a block when a gay voice hailed them. Max Pearson, crossing the street with great, swinging strides, was with them almost immediately.

"Called your place half an hour ago," he said, "but I couldn't get an answer. What are you doing now?"

"Nothing. Just on our way home."

"How about joining me for a little spin? It's too fine a night to stay in doors."

Dan and Cherry agreed enthusiastically. They walked to the parking station where Pearson had left his car and all three crowded into the single seat. The roadster was not to be compared with the smart little motor car that had been Cherry's at home but the engine was trustworthy. Soon they reached a highway along which buildings became farther and farther apart. Small stores, oil stations and low dwellings gave way for houses set in wide lawns. It was a neighborhood given to truck gardening.

CHERRY'S head was tilted backward. The breeze against her cheeks was caressing—more like a June night than one in May. Well, June was not so far ahead. The moon, a silvery half-shell, suddenly appeared from be-

JIM'S WIFE

Jim's wife told Jim he never would Amount to anything, or could.
She thought a lot of other men
Were wonderful. But Jim? Well, when
Jim thought he'd like to start a store,
She knew his faults and said, "What for?
You know you couldn't keep the books,
And people wouldn't like your looks.
You should be thankful, tell you what,
Because you've got the job you've got."

The higher rounds were not for him
To try to mount, Jim's wife told Jim.
Whatever round he tried above
She knew he'd make a failure of.
And told him so. He used to try,
But got discouraged bye-and-bye,
Convinced he couldn't make the grade
In any business, any trade,
Threw up the sponge, gave up the fight,
Made up his mind that she was right.

When electric current for the operation of the street cars was generated at a steam plant, located in the rear of the car barns? That was when the trolley cars were first put into operation here forty years ago.

THESE LADIES HAVE TAKING WAYS

Two evening meals of Escanaba folks were disturbed Thursday night, one by the presence and the other by the absence of a bunch of automobile keys. The lady in possession of the keys wondered where they had come from and the owner wondered where they had gone. It seems she had transacted an errand or two in the afternoon with a palatial automobile coach of popular make and when the husband arrived home they motored out on a picnic. The lunch was spread when the lady of the house noticed that there seemed to be superfluity of automobile keys. She had one, husband had one, and there was one in the car.

"How many car keys have you, anyway?" she asked friend husband..

"Only two; your bunch and my bunch," sezze.

"Then for goodness sakes whose keys have I got?" quoth the lady with a sinking feeling.

It was only then that she realized that she had been using someone else's car that afternoon, a palatial machine of the same make, model and year as their own, and when she got out had taken the keys with her. Her appetite at the picnic was spoiled as she began to think of the inconvenience she was causing somebody.

In the meantime, the dignified mentor of Salt & Pepper strode forth from his daily toil a little late for supper and slid into the seat of his parked automobile, but there were no keys! Telephoning failed to reveal a clue to the missing bunch, which also included the house key, so a call was sent to his friend wife, and for some inexplicable reason she was able to find her extra set of car keys promptly. A borrowed car bridged the gap between home and office, and all was well temporarily. That night the dispenser of Salt & Pepper dreamed of desperate brigands wandering around with his house and automobile keys, awaiting a chance to cop his car and stage a stickup, but the mystery was solved the next morning, with extra gray hairs on either side.

A hot weather rhubarb pie recipe which readers will welcome because it is so easily made and because it calls for rhubarb which is plentiful and appetizing at this time of the year, is given Betty Ann readers this morning by Mrs. A. L. Stilp.

Rhubarb Pie

Line pie plate with pastry.

Peal and cut rhubarb in short lengths and fill pie tin.

Mix one cup of sugar and yolks of thre eggs thoroughly and spread over rhubarb. Bake in a moderate oven from 20 to 30 minutes, or until mixture which forms a custard is set.

Make a meringue of the three egg whties and two heaping tablespoons of sugar. Spread over pie and return to the oven to brown.

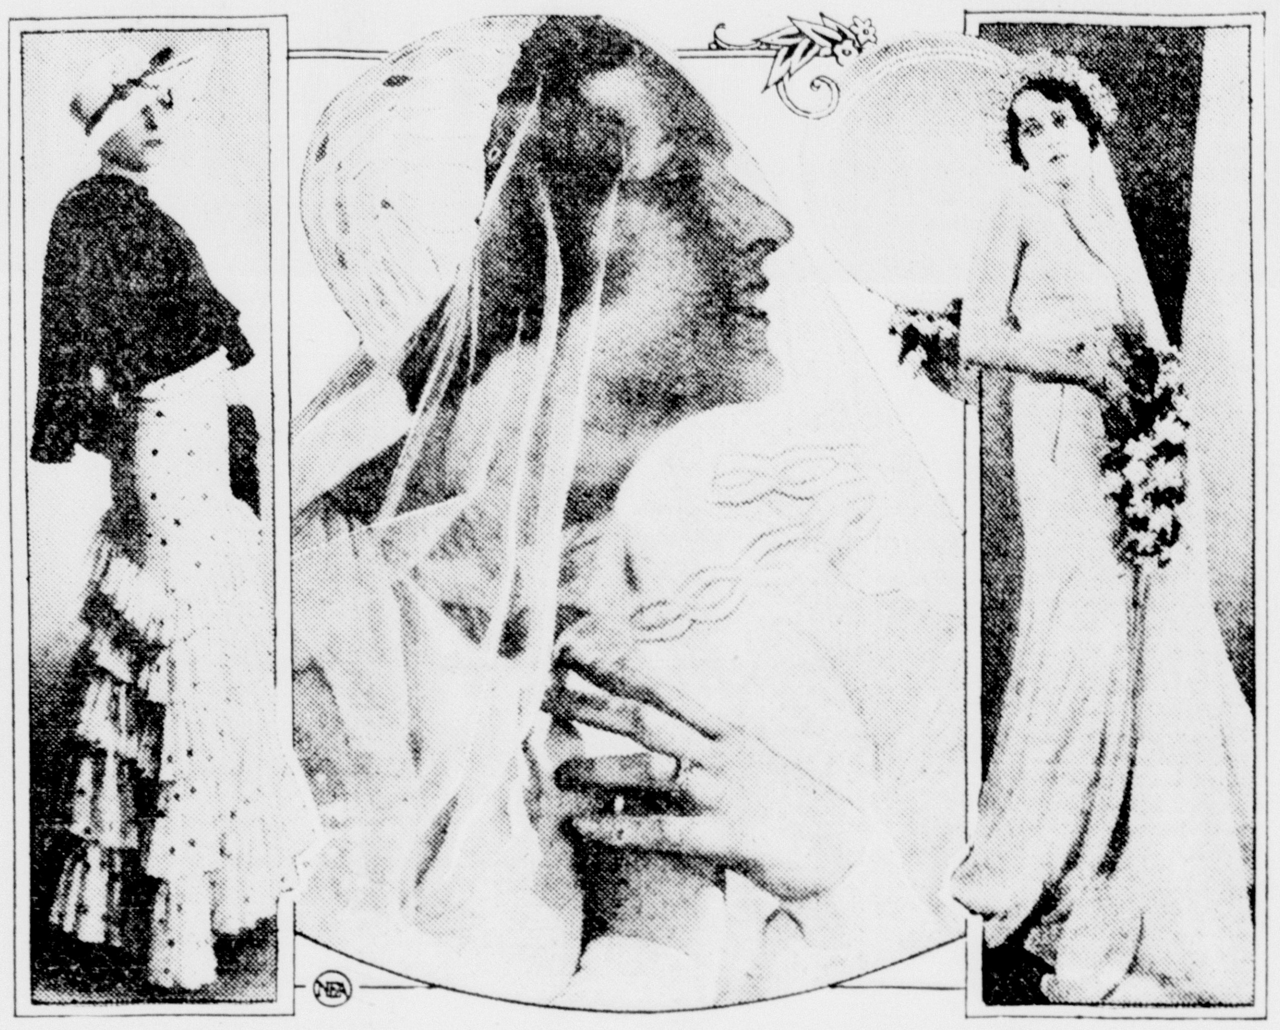
COTTONS FOR THE SUMMER WEDDING



A Lyolene model (left), of sheer white voile with a modernistic dotted design in bolero red, would make a picturesque bridesmaid's dress. The bolero-length jacket is of sheer red velvet; and the picture hat, of fine white straw, also is banded with red velvet. The cap and veil (center) of beautifully worked tulle was created by Lanvin. A wedding gown (right) of pale yellow chiffon was made by Molyneux for the English film star, Miss Benita Hume.

MILLIONS HELPED TO HEALTH BY ALL-BRAN

Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

In ten years, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has gained an increasing number of friends. Today, it is used by millions with satisfactory results.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove it has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using habit-forming pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN action is gentle. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Arm Is Amputated After Mishap Near Gladstone Limits

Struck by an automobile while walking along the highway near Gladstone, Joseph Kroger, 45, itinerant woodsman, received injuries which necessitated amputation of his left arm at St. Francis hospital yesterday.

Irving Swanson of Gladstone was the driver of the car which struck Kroger, according to officers. Swanson, who was accompanied by Chester Swanson, told the police that he was bound for Gladstone about 10 p. m. Thursday and about a mile south of the city met a big truck with bright lights. He turned out, he said, to give the struck a wide berth, and did not see the pedestrian. The handle of a door on Swanson's car caught Kroger's arm and caused multiple fractures so that the arm could not be saved.

Kroger has been in and around Escanaba for about 18 years, working in the woods and lumber camps.

Raise Expenses For Sault Game

Sufficient funds have been realized from the sale of tickets to guarantee expenses of the game tonight between Ping's, Sault Ste. Marie champions, and the Gladstone Men's Wear team, it was announced yesterday. This is expected to be the soft ball classic of the season.

Ping's come here highly touted and have an imposing record of victories. They are easily the class fo the teams in both the American and Canadian Sault.

Men's Wear is the same team that played under the title of Rouman's last year and won the U. P. championship. They are leading the local league this season.

The game is to be called at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Ebba Ayotte returned yesterday to Manistique after a few days' visit here with friends.

hind clouds. From a ploughed field there came the rich, warm odor of fresh earth.

"It is a wonderful night!" Cherry said. "And wonderful to get away from the city, too!"

"You miss that roadster of yours, don't you?" Dan asked.

"Not when Max is so generous."

She was careful throughout the drive and later when Pearson lingered at the apartment before saying good-night not to give him the opportunity to address her privately. When she spoke it was always to both men and not once did her eyes meet Pearson's in one of those compelling exchanges that could be so disturbing.

Something of this must have come to Dan's notice. He asked, when he and Cherry were alone in the apartment, "Say, don't you like Max? I thought you two were going to be friends."

"Why, we are!"

"You didn't seem very friendly tonight. I'm sure Max noticed it."

"I thought I was polite—"

"Oh, sure! Of course you were polite. You couldn't be anything else! Trouble was you were so darned polite and formal I think Max was offended."

Cherry's back was toward her husband. "I hope not," she said. "I didn't mean to offend him. The next time he comes I'll try to seem more cordial."

"That's all right," Dan said. "The only thing is Max is such a prince I wanted to be sure you like him. We ought to have Max around a lot, don't you think so?"

Cherry agreed that they should. She asked Dan if he had remembered to wind the clock and the conversation about Pearson was ended.

Three days followed in which the household routine went smoothly. The meals Cherry cooked were appetizing and Dan praised them. Spurred by this appreciation the tiny apartment became a model of spic and span order. Cherry, in a becoming gown, was smiling and cheerful each evening when Dan arrived. She entertained him with lively reviews of the day, listened with interest to the things he had to tell.

They went for walks in the spring twilight and drank in the sweetness of lilac hedges, heavily laden with blossoms, of syringas and fruit trees. The neighborhood of Kensington Circle was old-fashioned enough to include several homes with gardens behind high board fences. The fences could not shut in the sweetness of the flowers.

Then on the morning of the fourth day Cherry found a letter slipped beneath the door. It was almost the first that had come to her at the new home and she stared at it in surprise.

She picked up the envelope and studied the handwriting. Almost before she opened it Cherry knew the letter meant trouble.

OIL STATION SAFE ROBBED

Burglars Get $150.00 from Safe; Enter Two Places

Burglars forced entry into two North Ninth street oil stations Thursday night, rifled a safe of $150.00 and carried away the coin box of a pay telephone which contained not more than $2.00. No clues as to their indentity has been found.

The safe, which was rifled, was in the office of the Hansen-Jensen Oil company and the telephone coin box was taken from the Standard Oil station directly across the street. Entry into both buildings was gained by forcing open a north window, marks on the windows showing that a small bar was used. The combination of the safe was knocked og with a truss rod brace taken from the railroad yards. This and a heavy screw driver were left on the floor of the Hansen-Jensen station.

The burglary took place at an early hour yesterday morning, according to Alfred May, night patrolman, who discovered the open window at the Hansen-Jensen station at 5:30. He had visited the place on his rounds at 2 o'clock and everything was all right at that time, he said.

It is believed that the burglars first entered the Standard Oil station, where they found the safe too difficult for their tools. They had made no effort, so far as can be deterimned, to force it open.

That the men were amateurs, possibly local persons, is believed. The tools used did not indicate that the job was done by professionals. No fingerprints were to be found, officers said.

Two men, who entered the Hansen-Jensen station twice on the day preceding the robbery, and acted in a suspicious manner, are considered as likely to be connected with the burglary. These men are being sought for questioning.

Fishermen Join Farmers In the Prayer for Rain

Fishermen of Delta county are greatly concerned lest the drought, which has seriously reduced the water in the streams, will result in a depletion of the brook and rainbow trout. A survey of the larger trout streams of the county shows the lowest water level in a number of years and it is reported that many of the smaller streams have practically dried up.

The Rapid River, Whitefish, Days and Tacoosh, which empty into the northern end of Little Bay de Noc, which have been a mecca for Gladstone fishermen, look little like trout streams at the present time. A bare trickle of water, with a temperature that is nearly tepid, is not what the trout in these streams are accustomed to.

Not only has the lack of rain effected the streams, but it is said that many of the strings that formerly added greatly to the flow of water are practically dry.

The low water and warmer temperatures of the streams has brought to the fore a suggestion that the changed conditions in the streams has made them more suited to the brown trout than the speckled and rainbows which are native to the county. Brown trout thrive in water temperatures much higher than do the native trout.

An effort will probably be made to secure a stock of the brown trout for the streams here to replace the present varieties.

Mrs. Rudolph Larson and sons, Billy and Jimmy, of Manistique, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Larson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Lindblad.

THEATRES

Something new in entertainment is offered screen patrons today at the Rialto Theatre with the opening of Joan Bennett's latest Fox Films vehicle, "Week Ends Only."

It is the story of a society debutante who suddenly finds herself fatherless and penniless. In dire need of a job, she secures a novel one through the kindly offices of her former butler and blossoms out as a "week-end girl," paid handsomely by bored hosts and hostesses to supervise and entertain guests at week-end functions.

The job, in turn, leads to the somewhat embarrassing attentions of a millionaire who engages her services for the season, on "week-ends only," in the hope of eventually persuading her to accept his proposals of love. Meanwhile the girl has fallen in love with an ambitious young art student, living in the same Greenwich Village apartment house. The artist longs to marry her, but realizes, as she does, that they cannot afford it in his present financial status. The result of this conflict is said to come to an exciting climax that balances the gay comedy of the earlier scenes.

The officers of the club have issued an invitation to all business men of the city, regardless of whether they are paid members, to be present. Reservation for the dinner should be made by calling the office of the secretary, No. 32.

Moving Drag Line Equipment To Job

Marquette County Has Hopper Deluge

Marquette, Mich, June 16. (AP)—Crops of farmers in Marquette county are threatened with destruction by grasshoppers unless the pests are poisoned immediately, L. R. Walker, county agricultural agent, warned today. Mr. Walker has been busy all week assisting township farmers in preparing and distributing poison bait, furnished free by the county, in districts where the grasshopper menace has become most alarming.

Grasshoppers are so thick that motorists, travelling on US-41 on top of Green Garden hill, said the pavement was covered with the insects. Dry weather has encouraged breeding and the grasshoppers are hatching out in several places at the ratio of 100 to 200 a square foot.

Mr. Walker states that unless preventative measures are taken as soon as possible, large farming areas will be devastated.

Contract bridge is a game for morons, a learned doctor tells us. That's all wrong. He should ask some of the wives who play with thei rhusbands.

ALGER BOARD FLOATS LOAN

May Bills to Be Paid; Unemployed in Demands for Aid

The Alger county board of supervisors concluded a day session of a special meeting Thursday evening. This meeting was called for the purpose of raising funds to pay the county's outstanding obligations. Therefore the supervisors made a loan from the First National Bank and from the Peoples State Bank of a total of $10,000, one half of this sum from each bank. May bills owed by the county and by the poor commissioners were authorized paid.

An interesting request was made to the board by an unemployed committee representing 93 farmers of Rock River township. The request was in the nature of a number of demands upon the supervisors for assistance and relief, in various forms and various ways. The supervisors accepted the list of demands and it will be discussed at the annual June meeting which meets on Monday the 27th. Among the demands made was one for immediate action in combating the grasshopper menace. A committee consisting of Supervisors John H. Gatiss, Wm. Smith and James Knox, was appointed to confer with the farmers regarding the purchase of grasshopper poison.

Many Demands

The following is a complete list of the demands made as presented to the board:

That this meeting requests that the partiality shown in giving employment on county roads to certain individuals continuously and others none at all, be immediately corrected, and that each farmer and worker be given employment equally as their names appear on the registration list.

That work on roads be increased so the needy workers and farmers will have a chance to earn at least a few dollars to provide themselves and their families with most urgent necessities of life.

That teams be used instead of machinery on road work, so the farmers will have a chance to earn a little more than otherwise on county and township road work.

That the registration for employment be so arranged that it is convenient for each one unemployed to register, that means that the registration can be done at several places in the county or at least in every township in one or more places.

That Mr. E. C. Brown be released from his position as foreman on county roads and another man appointed in his place. The reason for this request is that Mr. Brown has denied employment on county roads to several men although they have shown notices received from the county registration official to report for work, and giving preferences to his friends in distributing employment regardless if the persons need employment or not.

That a committee of five be elected consisting of Jack Ericson, Eric Hakanen, Alex Mattson, Hjalmar Korpi, and Matt Maki, Jr., to present this request to the Rock River township board for their endorsement and then to the county board for action.

The same committee was also instructed to request quick action from the township, county and state department for combatting the grasshopper menace which is now again threatening to destroy the crops of farmers now planted and growing. Immediate action is necessary in the opinion of the farmers assembled at this meeting.

CASE CONTINUED

The case of the people vs. John Hendrickson, charged with assault and battery by Emil Helsteen came to trial in Justice Wright's court Thursday. The jury disagreed and the case was continued until next Wednesday. It is alleged by complainant that Hendrickson bit his thumb, which became infected, and that he also struck him upon the head with a coffee pot. Hendrickson has been a boarder in Helsteens residence and Helsteen stated that he objected to Hendrickson's presence on account of disturbance to the peace and tranquility of his home.

1932 BUDGET IS GIVEN O. K.

Fixes New Tax Rate at $14.89 Per Thousand; Consider Manager

The 1932 city budget and appropriation ordinance was unanimously passed Thursday evening by the city council at a meeting adjourned from last Monday. No changes were made in either the budget or ordinance with the amount to be raised this year by taxation and incidental revenues set at $57,531.00.

This year's tax rate, based on the assessed valuation of $3,866,000.00 as fixed by the board of review, will be $14.89 per thousand, or an increase of 29 cents per thousand over that of last year. This year's tax rate, however, is still way below that established two years ago when a rate of $16.30 per thousand was established.

The slight increase in the tax rate this year is due to the fact that the $3,000 sliced off the budget was not sufficient to offset the lower assessed valuation on real and personal property. The lower valuation of city property was due to a decrease in the valuation of vacant lands and a reduced supply and reductions in the value of stocks kept on hand by local merchants.

Eriksen Resigns

Mayor Harry Eriksen Thursday night resigned his position as acting city manager to become effective at once. The council approved of a remuneration for his services at the rate of $250 per month from May 1 to June 16, and authorized J. W. Gilligan as mayor pro tem to sign the item.

With a move to select a new city manager as soon as possible, council members considered the 39 applications for the position. Further steps in this direction will be taken at a meeting of the council to be held next Monday evening.

Other business consumated was the asking for bids on a light three-quarter or one-half ton truck for the water and sewer department, bids on a two-ton heavy duty truck, and the granting of beverage licenses to Thomas Grimsley, Jr., and Homer LaFoille.

The record catch of a striped Marlin Swordfish is 1040 pounds. It was caught last year off the California coast by Zane Grey, the novelist.

Batteries were Barr and Gilroy for the Athletics and Larion, Marks, and Tyrell, McDonough for the Orioles.

Three Men Slain While Attempting To Kidnap Gambler

Chicago, June 16 (AP)—Ambushed by detectives, three alleged extortionists were killed by shotgun and pistol fire today as they attempted to kidnap Morris Schecter, gambler.

The shooting occurred in Schecter's loop bookmaking establishment when members of the band attempted to drag him from the place after he refused to pay them $25,000. Last week they called upon the gambler and ordered him to have the sum ready today or "take the consequences."

Instead Schecter notified Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and when the terrorists arrived today they walked into a police trap.

One of the slain men was identified by Roche as Harold Partner of St. Louis. An automobile certificate of title found in the clothing of a second dead man, bore the name "Frank Rogers," and a Chicago address. The other victim was Am Katz, Chicago police character.

New York, June 17 (AP)—Stocks dropped in a wan market today, giving up hard-won gains of the past few sessions.

Obviously, the market's inability to go through the June 4 highs, even after the rails had done so, had something to do with the decline, which for many lears ran from 2 to 3 points. Professional buying interest clearly waned, and lacking support from that quarter, the list seemed to sag of its own weight. Total transactions were only 789,774 shares.

Oils were dull, although there were scattering reports of higher gasoline prices.

Auburn hit the skids for a break of nearly 10 points. Rail stocks after a feeble advance in the first hour or so, joined the downward procession, Union Pacific closed 4 points lower, New York Central 1 5-8 and Santa Fe 2¾. In utilities, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas slumped about 3. U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Case, American Tobacco "B," National Biscuit and Allied Chemical sagged 2 to 3.

Brokers pointed out that the week's advance in stocks had been accomplished against a handicap of drab business news such as would hardly inspire outside support.

Curb Issues Move Into Reverse Gear

New York, June 17 (AP)—The curb market went into reverse in the late trading today, in sympathy with the reaction on the big board.

The market had an interval of firmness in the earlier trading, but for the most part, the tendency was toward lower levels. Trading quickened a little, the turnover aggregating 100,000 shares, or 20,000 more than yesterday's.

Bell Telephone of Canada appeared at 70, off 9 points since it last traded here. Commonwealth Edison lost 2½, American Gas and Electric 1¼. Electric Bond and Share common closed 5-8 lower while the preferred issues lost about a point.

Oils held up fairly well. Indiana and Imperial were off fractionally, but Standard of Ohio recovered yesterday's loss of a point. Deere sagged in sympathy with wheat, and the Swift issues were off fractionally, apparently on realizing. Aluminum Co. dropped 2.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, June 17—Collapsing under the first heavy selling pressure from the 1932 United States harvest, all deliveries of wheat outdid today the season's low price record.

Favorable weather for domestic winter wheat operations, together with good rains in spring crop territory had a contributing bearish effect, together with New York Stock market downturns. Besides, export business in North American wheat appeared to be almost nil.

Wheat closed nervous at nearly the day's low, 1 7-8 to 2 1-8 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1¼ to 2 down, oats ¼ to ½ off and provisions 2 to 7 cents up.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. Kansas City July delivery of corn, which yesterday was around ½ cent over the same future in Chicago, dropped to a discount today.

Provisions were responsive to hog market upturns that reached the best price since April.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 46 3-4 to 7-8, 49 1-8; September, 49 5-8, 52; December, 52 5-8, 55 1-8 to ¼. Corn—July, 28 5-8 to 3-4, 29 5-8; September, 30 5-8, 31 3-8 to ½; December, 30 3-4, 31½.

New York, June 17 (AP)—Early developments at the Lausanne conference apparently were mildly approved by the bond market today, with the result that the German government issues were the star performers of the session.

On the other hand, domestic loans received little attention from traders and investors. The averages for the utilities and industrials held to their closing figures of yesterday and the railroads slipped only fractionally. United States government issues improved moderately.

Sales totaled $10,371,000, par value, of which federal transactions aggregated about one-third.

While most of the corporation bonds followed a narrow range, a few of the carrier issues slipped a point or more. Among thee were Santa Fe general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Chesapeake Corp. 5s, Erie convertible 4s and Illinois Central 4¾s. Frisco 4½s were the heaviest traded of the rails, with a net gain of 5-8 of a point.

Both Western Union 5s were up from 1 1-8 to 2 1-8 points. Standard Oil of New York 4½s were heavy. American Telephone and Consolidated Gas issues were steady.

Fisherman Does His Own Operation

Sydney, N. S. W. (AP)—A story of an abdominal operation which a fisherman performed on himself has been revealed on the arrival here of the man who had been marooned by storms on Scatari Island for several weeks.

The fisherman who has arrived here safe and well, was alone in an island cabin when he was suddenly smitten with an abdominal trouble and thought he would die if he did not operate.

With his jack-knife, a knitting needle, and a length of wire taken from an old tin pail, in the half light provided by his flickering wood fire, he carried out the operation successfully.

Madison Garden Cuts Prices for Fight Tickets

HOPES TO LURE FAITHFUL FANS

Probable Receipts for Heavyweight Battle About $250,000

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Wrter)

New York, June 17 (AP)—The desperate efforts to get Max Schmeling's heavyweight title defense against Jack Sharkey out of the financial "mechanical lung," where it is breathing faintly, took a decided turn today in favor of the cash customers.

Drastic reductions in whole sections of high-proced seats in Madison Square Garden's new bowl on Long Island have increased to approximately 50,000 the number of tickets that are selling for between $2 and $5.

In effect, the cheaper-priced seats have been moved into the higher-scaled areas, leaving only 17,000 of the total capacity of 77,000 in the top brackets. On this new scale it is estimated a complete sell-out Tuesday night would gross only $500,000, with every indication that no more than half that amount will be lured from the pockets of the faithful.

Harrassed by Tax

No other heavyweight championship battle in modern ring history ever presented such a discouraging financial prospect so short a time before the firing was due to begin.

The Garden also has been harrassed by the federal tax situation. After tickets were printed, allowing only for a 10 per cent tax in conformity with the new bill that goes into effect June 21, the day of the fight, it was discovered the federal government intends to collect the 25 per cent levy of the old tax bill on all tickets sold prior to the day of the contest. The Garden will be forced to pay the difference, materially reducing net proceeds.

While hope of financial success has about died, there seemed every possibility the duel will be one of the artistic triumphs of modern heavyweight history. Both warriors are in superb condition. Both are clouters and can take tremendous punishment.

Schmeling still feels keenly the fact that he won the title from Sharkey in four rounds while sitting on the floor claiming foul, the only heavyweight champion in history with that dubious distinction.

The Boston sailor, with nothing but bitter memories at his own lack of control in a match he was winning easily, is further aroused by the fact he can gain little except the title in victory. Whereas Schmeling will receive almost 50 per cent of the net receipts, Sharkey will get only 10 per cent.

Furthermore, fouls will not count this time because of an amendment to boxing commission rules in effect when Sharkey whaled the German low two years ago.

Neither gladiator worked today. Schmeling intends to fly down from his camp the day of the match. Sharkey will drive in in time for the weighing in.

SQUABBLE ON REFEREE

New York, June 17 (AP)—The most ancient of the last minute ballyhoo "steam-ups" bobbed up today with reports that Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, would not permit his warrior to earn $100,000 next Tuesday night by fighting Jack Sharkey if "a certain referee" were named to officiate by the New York state athletic commission.

Under the rules of the commission, the referee is chosen a few minutes before the ceremony begins and is unknown up to that time. No manager as yet has ever successfully opposed the commission ruling in this respect.

Jacobs was very quiet about it all.

NEW SHOT PUT RECORD IS SET

52 Ft. 8 5-8 Inches Toss Betters Mark Set in 1928 Olympics

Cambridge, Mass., June 17 (AP)—Leo J. Sexton, the New York A. C.'s mighty shotputter, was able to make only one perfect toss today at the Harvard stadium because of a slippery take-off but it went 52 feet 8 5-8 inches for a new world record. It was the only exceptional performance in the long opening program of the American Olympic semi-final track and field meet.

The former Georgetown star bettered the world record set by E. Hirschfeld of Germany in 1928 by one and an eighth inches, topped Herman Brix' American mark by two and seven-eighths inches and shattered John Kuck's Olympic record of 15.87 meters, made in the last international games, by more than eight inches.

Brix, however, hurled the shot exactly the same distance achieved by Sexton in a recent meet in Taft, Calif. This extraordinary coincidence gives the United States two claimants to the official world record.

Only one final was run off on the drenched track during the dark afternoon. Paul Rekers, one of Sexton's teammates and the intercollegiate indoor two-mile champion when he was at Pennsylvania State, put on a terrific closing sprint to overtake Louis Gregory of the Millrose A. A., national six-mile titlist, in the home stretch of the 5,000 meters run. He had an eight-yard lead when he broke the tape in 15 minutes, 12.6 seconds.

Six other track events were cut down to the finals.

ACE PITCHERS GET INTO FORM

Grove and Hallahan Mowing Down Foes As in Past

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 17 (AP)—The question of pitching came before the baseball forum on a day totally devoid of major league games and a quick survey of records, past and present, added a few more dark clouds along the horizons of the two 1931 champions.

A year ago the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics, both getting remarkable hurling, were bowling along at the top. Today the A's were tied for second place with an average some 200 points below what they had on June 17, 1931, and the Cards were fourth in the close of National league struggle. On the two teams only about two really dependable flingers were to be found.

Lefty Grove and Bill Hallahan have kept up their good work, but most of the other aces of the teams which battled in the world series last October have been disappointing. The highly touted newcomers haven't done much to ease the strain.

Grove Going Hot

Grove's curent average of .800, gained from 12 victories and three defeats, compares well with his record mark of .886 last year, when he won 31 out of 35 decisions. Hallahan has won six games and lost three, and is only a few points below last season's .679 mark.

On the other hand, Burleigh Grimes, fourth in the national won and lost records in 1931 is doing very well with the Chicago Cubs and Flint Rhem was shipped to the Phillies after winning four games and losing two for St. Louis.

Paul Derringer, top man of the National league last season, has lost five of his eight decisions so far while Sylvester Johnson has won three games and lost four as compared to eleven victories and nine defeats in 1931.

The sensation-producing "Dizzy" Dean, who just couldn't lose in the Texas league, stands credited with five victories and four defeats, the second best record on his club. Tex Carleton of whom much also was expected, has lost all of his three decisions.

On June 17, 1931, big George Earnshaw won his eleventh straight victory. Yesterday he recorded his ninth victory of 1932 against six defeats. Rube Walberg and Leroy Mahaffey, who complete the major part of the Philadelphia staff are even further below last year's records. Together they accounted for 35 victories in 1931, but so far have contributed only nine this season, against 10 defeats.

Tony Freitas, the only important addition to the Athletics hurling corps, hasn't had much chance to show his stuff, but so far he has won one game and lost two.

Springfield Beats Athletics By 6-5

Ban On Hitlerite Troops Is Lifted

Berlin, June 16 (AP)—The ban on Adolf Hitler's storm troops, promulgated by the Bruening government two months ago, was lifted today by the Von Papen ministry, and immediately there were strong protests from the states of Baden and Bavaria.

Premier Josef Schmitt of Baden declared in Karlshuhe that his government could not be held responsible for maintaining order with the Nazi troopers free to carry on demonstrations. The lifting of the ban just before the general elections was a grave mistake, he said.

This protest apparently had immediate effect, for a few hours after the federal government had published its decree reestablishing the legality of the outlawed Hitlerite militant organization, an exception was made in the case of Baden.

TOO MUCH SLEEP

Port'and, Ore.—Louis Sondheim and Aaron Holtz were backing an ordinance for daylight delivery of milk because their slumbers were interrupted in the early morning hours by noisy milk trucks. Commissioner A. L. Barbur got up and gave the following impassioned speech: "This sleeping business has become a fad with people who have nothing else to do. I only get four or five hours or sleep a night and I'm on deck every morning. There's no sense in sleeping eight or nine hours."

SARAZEN GETS REAL WELCOME

New York Greets Yankee Who Copped British Golf Tournament

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Ass'd Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 17 (AP)—The city held out the glad hand of welcome today to Gene Sarazen, doughty little American golfing professional, on his triumphant return from England and record-smashing victory in the British open.

All the time-honored trimmings went into the reception to the native son, including the escorted dash from the Battery to City hall, the posing with Mayor Jimmy Walker and the department of Sanitation band. It all was topped off by a testimonial banquet tonight, with covers laid for 1,000 guests.

"I've been in some pretty deep bunkers in my life," said Gene as he faced a battery of microphones and cameras at City hall, "but none quite as deep as this."

He stood abashed, fondling the British open trophy and gazing at his shoe laces, as Mayor Walker gave one of his characteristic addresses.

Message Of Economy

"We are all thrilled at your great victory in the field of international sport," eulogized the mayor. "You have maintained the standard of American sportsmanship and brought us a message in economy. If we could reduce the cost of city government as you have reduced golf scores, we could run this municipality on practically nothing."

His honor referred to Sarazan's remarkable total of 283 strokes for the 72 holes of medal play in the British event, the lowest score ever recorded in a national open tournament in England or America. Sarazen gave a less flowery, but more practical discourse on his sensational form abroad.

"I simply got my putting touch the day the tournament began," he explained, "and it stayed with me. That, and the wonderful encouragement given by by the British people made my victory possible.

"They seemed to want me to win from the first, and they stayed with me to the end, cheering every shot I made. Five thousand fans followed me on the final round, including the Prince of Wales, and he stuck it out despite the fact he was limping from a corn."

MAKING PLANS FOR GOLF MEET

Invitational Tourney to Be at Iron Mountain June 25 and 26

Iron Mountain—About 70 golfers from various cities of the upper peninsula are expected to attend the upper peninsula invitational golf tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 25 and 26, at the Pine Grove Country club in Iron Mountain.

Invitations have been sent out, with the request that the names of those who will participate be forwarded at the earliest possible date. The estimated attendance of 70 players, including Iron Mountain golfers and visitors is based upon a partial response already received.

Many to Be Represented

Houghton, Ironwood, Ishpeming, Marquette, Menominee, Crystal Falls, Escanaba, Sault Ste. Marie and other communities where golf associations are organized are expected to send representatives. Iron Mountain accepted the invitational tournament this year after Crystal Falls golfers had asked to be released from the responsibility, due to prevailing business conditions.

Although prizes to be offered for the championship and other flights may not be as elaborate as in former years, there will be awards for winners in each division. Tentative plans also provide for ample entertainment during the two days of play.

As outlined at present, tournament play will begin about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. A small tent will be set up at the first tee, where entries will report and the official starter will call off the teams and send them out.

To Pick Prizes

Four major prizes will be awarded—the championship, winning four, beaten four and consolation, in addition to the team and individual awards. A committee consisting of Paul Gingrass, D. F. Villemur and L. D. Tucker has been named to select the prizes for the various events.

According to present plans, lunch will be served at the club house Saturday noon by the women of the country club.

Ray Hubley, chairman of the entertainment committee, is lining up a "stag night" program starting at about 8 o'clock Saturday night, at the club.

Play will be resumed Sunday morning. It is tentatively planned to make some provision for lunch at the club for the visitors and the members who care to stay.

The play-offs will be held Sunday afternoon, concluding when the championship flight comes in at the 18th hole.

Keen Competition

Competition in the first flight will be keen as reports from other communities include 10 to 15 "parshooters" will be among the invading contingent.

There will be plenty of "stragglers," those intrepid and resolute souls who, hovering always in the 90's or early 100's, battle around the fairways, when they aren't in the rough, seeking to emulate the dead-shot heroes who have gone before. But they will probably get the most fun out of it.

Milwaukee Brewers Defeat Yanks, 10-9

BOATSWAIN IS DERBY CHOICE

Son of Man O' War Ruling Favorite to Capture $50,000 Race

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—The $50,000 American Derby will be run at Washington Park tomorrow with Boatswain, three-year-old son of Man O'War and winner of the Withers stakes at Belmont Park, the ruling choice to capture the twenty-fourth running of the fixture.

The event, first run in 1874, attracted an overnight field of 14, representing the best three-year-olds left in training. Unless showers develop overnight, the race, at a mile and a quarter, will be run over a fast track, with prospects of an attendance of more than 35,000.

Has Odds of 3 to 1

Boatswain, the entry of Walter M. Jeffords of New York, was installed as favorite at odds of 3 to 1. Stepenfetchit, the Mrs. John Hay Whitney color-bearer, another invader from New York, third in the Kentucky Derby, was second choice at 4 to 1, with Yonkel, owned by Abe Bartelstein, ranking third choice along with Osculator. Yonkle is the main dependence to carry a Chicagoan's silks to victory.

The race two weeks ago shaped up as the best three-year-old event of the season, with every prospect of evolving a championship struggle, but Burgoo King, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness stakes, broke down in a training gallop at Belmont Park and had to be withdrawn. Evening, probably the best three-year-old filly in training, also met with a misfortune to force her withdrawal. Tick On and Economic, which finished second in the Kentucky Derby, also encountered training injuries.

Tomorrow Boatswain will attemtp to conquer the best three-year-olds that can be set against him. He will meet them on new racing grounds and will pack top weight, 126 pounds. The others with the exception of I Say, the only filly in the race, will carry 118 pounds. I Say was assigned 113.

Games Sunday
Perkins at Turin.
Rock at Trenary.
Wells at West End.

With two Sundays of good baseball to its credit, the Four County League has stirred up much interest in the villages of this part of the upper peninsula.

The league is composed of 12 teams and has two divisions, namely, the Western and Eastern divisions. The plan of the league is to have a ten game schedule in each division. At the end of the ten games the teams in the western half will play a five game schedule with corresponding (in standings) teams in the eastern half. When this is finished, a little series will decide the championship.

Wells and Rock are leading the Western division with two victories and no defeats, while the West Ends have been victorious in the only game they have played. Trenary, Perkins and Turin are on the bottom, having lost their first starts.

Sunday's feature game will be the West End-Wells fray, where the league leadership will be at stake. These two teams are well matched and there should be plenty of excitement at this game.

Rock and Trenary, always great baseball rivals, will meet Sunday in another prospective thriller. Trenary will be after its first win, while Rock will try to keep its slate clean.

Perkins and Turin will hook up for the honor of holding down the cellar. Both teams were unfortunate in drawing strong opening season games, but each is determined to win this game Sunday.

A turnout of nearly 20 players seeking positions on the squad reported last evening.

Manager Bourke expects an exciting game with the Mountaineers as his investigation of their record revealed that they are not a team to be trifled with. They are rated one of the strongest teams in their section of the peninsula.

EATON'S STOCK DEALS RAPPED

Sensational Charge Is Made Before Senate Committee

BY FREDERICK G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, D. C., June 16 (AP)—Charges that millions of dollars invested by the public in Continental Shares, Inc., of Cleveland, were used by the public to "further the personal ventures" of Cyrus E. Eaton, its organizer, were made today in the senate stock market investigation.

The accusation came from David Stock, investigator for the senate banking committee conducting the inquiry, and George L. Gugle, of Columbus, Ohio, a Continental Shares stockholder.

Testimony also was presented by Stock and William A. Gray, the committee counsel, concerning Foreign Utilties, which they described as Eaton's personal holding company in Canada.

Referring to the transaction which they described, Chairman Norbeck (R., S. D.) said it "has the appearance of being a plan to get away from the income tax."

Taking the stand briefly in answer to the testimony, W. R. Daley, of Cleveland, attorney for Eaton, said some of the statements made at the hearing were false and that others led to erroneous inferences.

Eaton himself did not appear.

"I don't think a man has a chance to build up a defense and present that defense before a senate committee," Daley said.

Daley said one of the incorrect statemonts was an assertion by Stock that Otis and company had "unloaded" upon Continental Shares a quantity of Inland Steel stock at a price considerably higher than it could have been sold for in the market.

Earlier in the day, the committee sought to take up the operations of Fox Film and Fox Theare corporations but was balked until tomorrow by the illness of William Fox, their organizer, who was scheduled to take the stand. He is expected to testify tomorrow.

Gray told the committee he intended to show that the corporations were "wrecked" by Fox and that he also would present evidence of a gigantic income tax avasion.

It was only after the committee had sent two doctors to check up on the story of Benjamin Reass, attorney for Fox, that the film man was ill in his hotel room and unable to appear, that the postponement was agreed to.

DEMOCRATS IN CHICAGO PLAN FOR CONCLAVE

is sending rival delegations dividing allegiance to Roosevelt and Smith. Porto Rico also will have a Roosevelt-Smith fight, while Louisiana's two delegations will grapple over the legality of the HueyLong delegation of twenty believed to favor Roosevelt.

Shouse said there might be a fight in the convention over the wording of the prohibition plank, but he thought most of the differences will be smoothed out in advance.

More than fifty suggestions for a prohibition plank had been received, he said, adding most of them were "very, very wet" with the trend toward repeal.

He said he believed the Democratic declaration would not put the party on record as favoring repeal, but that it would favor submission of the question of repeal "with the idea of returning the question to the states."

"Who's going to be the Democratic candidate?" he was asked.

"I wish you would tell me," Shouse replied.

He said he thought there was a "very much greater liberal tendency on prohibition in the south than heretofore," in view of recent actions in North Carolina, Texas, Florida and Virginia.

"I think the southern states this year will vote the Democratic ticket regardless of the platform," he added.

The executive committee chairman said suggestions for a farm relief plank had been received almost in as great a number as those on prohibition and that generally they favored the equalization fee principle.

New Funeral Home Opened At Sault By Escanaba Man

A new funeral service establishment has been opened at Sault Ste. Marie by a former Escanaba resident, Thomas J. Beaumier, son of Mrs. Joseph Beaumier, 420 South Ninth.

Mr. Beaumier was born in Escanaba, and made his home here until about eight years ago, when he went to the Sault to take a position as undertaker with the Ryan company. Previous to that time he was connected with the Allo funeral home at Escanaba. His new establishment at the Sault is located at 115 Maple street, in a completely remodeled building formerly occupied by the Greek church. Arched doorways have been installed, and the place has seven rooms, including two displays rooms, a reception room, chapel, women's rest room, slumber room, and preparation room, with modern undertaking equipment.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Beaumier has brothers and sisters living in Escanaba. Several local residents have inspected his new funeral building while visiting in the Sault recently.

FRANCE HUSTLED FROM CONVENTION PLATFORM

Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, candidate for the republican nomination for president, was speedily removed from the speakers' platform at the national convention in Chicago when he sought to place the name of Calvin Coolidge before the convention. Refused recognition by Chairman Snell, France was removed by police and convention officers, shouting "You'll have to carry me off, I have my rights."

'RED' BARKER SHOT TO DEATH

way toward subjugation of the cleaning and dyeing, meat market, laundry and carbonated beverages trades.

Murray Humphries and Morris Kaplan, his partners in previous enterprises, were sought for questioning in the killing. So was Frank Nitti, one of Capone's most trusted gunners, just back from Leavenworth penitentiary where he served a term for income tax fraud. So were Frankio Rio, another former bodyguard of the chief, and Joe Fusco, to whom Capone was understood to have delegated his power.

Coroner Frank Walsh adjourned an inquiry into Barker's death to facilitate the police investigation.

There was no trace of Barker's companions who fired a few formal shots at the second floor apartment window where the killer's lay, and took his body to a hospital in the early morning hours.

HOOVER GETS COMPLIMENTS

President Congratulated For Winning Party's Nomination

BY JOHN F. CHESTER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Congratulations by the hundreds, in both oral and telegraphic form, today poured in upon the White House while President Hoover himself reflected an air of apparent satisfaction at his renomination as he set about making campaign plans.

The president greeted his running mate, Vice President Curtis, with a hearty handshake as he entered the executive mansion during the morning. He listened to first-hand convention reports from two of his cabinet officers just returned from the Chicago front, and gave commendation of the party action in return.

"He seemed to feel," said Secretary Wilbur, "that we had done a prompt and effective job."

Among the telegrams read personally by the chief executive today were some from dry leaders, opposing the prohibition plank adopted by the convention and asking him to repudiate it. Most of the messages, however, his aides said, were of a congratulatory nature.

It appeared almost certain today that Mr. Hoover would remain close to the White House during much of the campaign. It is planned to have his acceptance speech delivered from the south portico of the executive mansion, which looks over broad lawns to the Washington monument.

To Limit Speeches

Although definite plans will not be made until he confers at length with Everett Sanders, new chairman of the Republican national committee, it appeared likely that Mr. Hoover would limit his traveling to key speeches in 7 or 8 different cities. He will, of course, conduct part of his campaign by radio from his nearby Rapidan fishing camp.

As Vice President Curtis left the cabinet meeting, he said it was "too early" for him to indulge in any discussion of his campaign plans. He probably will bear the brunt of the speaking engagements.

Later President Hoover was congratulated upon his renomination by newspaper correspondents.

Payment Suspended Until After Lausanne Conference

BY MELVIN WHITELEATHER
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 17. (AP)—The long-awaited Lausanne conference got under way today with restrained expressions of differences among the major powers, but before the first session ended an agreement was obtained for a stop-gap continuance, in effect, of the Hoover moratorium.

In no way involving the United States, this agreement suspended reparations payments from June 30, the end of the Hoover moratorium, for the duration of the Lausanne conference.

This will have the probable effect of prolonging the conference well into July, and reflected an apparent decision on the part of the statesmen here to continue their deliberations until something in the nature of a "permanent settlement" is reached.

U. S. Not Involved

The move was initiated by Great Britain and was accepted by France, Italy, Belgium and Japan. The decision, which in no way prejudices any ultimate agreements, would affect total payments of about $48,000,000 from Germany and her war-time allies, provided it continued to the middle of July.

(Washington dispatches revealed that no large payments to the United States would be affected by today's Lausanne decision because none are due until December. It was reiterated that the United States would keep hands off until Europe reached a decision).

Then came the differences of opinion in the speeches of the various delegates. Franz von Papen, the new German chancellor, commended the temporary agreement. He omitted any declaration repudiating reparations, but said a moratorium on private debts and amortization of $355,500,000 mostly held by Americans, might be necessary.

Great Britain, through Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared herself in favor of wiping the war payments slate clean (a policy first enunciated in the famous Balfour note several years ago), but Premier Edouard Herriot of France disagreed.

The French premier accepted a German declaration that Germany could not meet payments now, but added:

"Cancellation is not an efficacious, equitable solution, for debts and reparations are but one element of the world's troubles."

ESCANABA BANS BLACK CURRANT

Blister Rust Campaign Continues in Rural Delta County

All European black currants within the Escanaba city limits have been uprooted, some 250 bushes have been destroyed in Escanaba gardens. The European black currant is the favorite host plant of the whie pine blister rust, and has been declared a public nuisance by state law. As such, it is being destroyed throughout the state.

State Inspector C. L. Bennett reports that he has received splendid cooperation from the people of Escanaba, which has greatly facilitated the rapid progress of the work. Removal of the bushes will continue throughout Delta county.

Blister rust kills white pine tres. It spreads from white pines to currant and gooseberry bushes, to other currant and gooseberry bushes, and back to the pines, but cannot spread directly from one pine to another. All species of currants and gooseberries are susceptible to the disease, but the black currant is more susceptible than any other kind. While most varieties of these bushes are capable of sending off spores which will infect pines within 900 feet, the European black currant is capable of spreading the disease for a least a mile. In addition, the black currant picks up the disease much more readily, and so introduces it to new areas.

To date, black currants have been removed from six upper peninsula counties, namely: Gogebic, Marquette, Dickinson, Menominee, Baraga and Iron. Blister rust is killing pines in Marquette, Baraga, Dickinson, Menominee and Iron counties, and every effort is being made to check the spread of the disease.

Blister rust control is being carried on in all the white pine growing states, there being 17 states cooperating with the U. S. department of agriculture in stamping out the disease. Further information may be obtained from the county agricultural agent's office.

GOOD FISHIN'

Houston, Tex.—The thieves apparently were expert fishermen. They smashed a hole in the window of the J. L. Mitchell Jewelry company and made away with about $1500 worth of jewelry. The hole was not large enough to allow entry of a hand and arm, so the bandits rigged up a long wire hook and fished out the valuables.
